

A Storm is Coming...Are You Ready?

ESG's Crisis Management Consulting

The undeniable fact is that we live in a perilous world where complacency is a luxury that cannot be afforded. Large corporations can expect to face a crisis on average every four to five years. The good news is that an Oxford University study found stock prices of companies that managed crises well rose 7% on average in the year following the crisis. By contrast, the stock prices of companies with less effective crisis management dropped 15%. Clearly, there is a significant potential return on investment having a crisis management plan in place.

A crisis can be defined as any natural, accidental, or intentional event that severely impacts people, property, and/or the environment. Crises are typically characterized by chaos, uncertainty, time urgency, misinformation, frustration, unwanted public scrutiny, and organizational stress. In today's sound-bite society, the perceived mismanagement of a crisis situation by an organization can eclipse the crisis itself in the collective memory of participants and the public.

ESG's consultants have spent entire careers in the FBI and Department of Defense repeatedly working and managing major crises of national significance. ESG client Fortune 500 companies have benefited from this hard-won experience by directly contracting with us to develop tailored crisis management programs that are good fits for their organization and culture. We start by making an unbiased organizational assessment with specific observations and recommendations. We then prepare a crisis program that articulates the structures, processes, and leadership traits that equip the organization to deal with future crises and prevent them from becoming catastrophes. Finally, we provide performance-based training and exercises that test and validate written crisis plans. ESG consultants are also available to our clients for actual, real-world crisis situations.

Let ESG help prepare your company for the inevitable. Contact us for more information at (954) 359-8897.

“In preparing for battle, I have always found that plans are useless, but planning indispensable.”

– Dwight D. Eisenhower

Who We Are and What We Do

Eagle Security Group, Inc. (ESG) is a multidisciplinary provider of risk management and security services.

These services help to reduce the risk of both existing and emerging threats that individuals, businesses, and governments face everyday.

ESG professionals come from a wide range of careers in law enforcement, government, and the private sector. Our goal is to leverage their vast experience to solve complex problems at the strategic, operational, and tactical levels in both the private and public sectors.

ESG has several strategic alliances with other companies to provide comprehensive solutions and to compete at all levels of industry.

Our staff includes professionals with extensive experience in Federal and local law enforcement agencies, the U.S. military, and the private sector. Our management and staff possess unparalleled skills and experience in anti- and counterterrorism both within the U.S and internationally. ESG staff includes several former members of the FBI Critical Incident Response Group, SWAT, and the Hostage Rescue Team, as well as former military special operations personnel.

ESG helps clients properly address the threats and hazards that face their organization, personnel, facilities, and assets. We work closely with clients to develop, plan, and implement crisis management and security-related measures that mitigate these problems. Our clients are diverse and range from major gaming and resort corporations to the Department of Homeland Security.

Core Competencies

Crisis Management and Continuity of Operations

We provide planning, training and consulting services to both governments and commercial clients to help them prepare for and respond to crises and major incidents. ESG, in keeping with National strategies, applies an all-hazards approach to its crisis management activities. Our services include assessments, plan preparation, training and exercises, continuity of operations, and on-scene operational support. ESG provides these services for disasters, special events, or whenever a client requires the best of professional services.

Executive Protection ESG provides the highest quality and most comprehensive capabilities for the protection of at-risk personnel. Our experts specialize in planning and operations for the toughest of assignments, to include austere environments. ESG can provide both discrete and high-visibility options.

Risk Management Consulting ESG provides a myriad of security-services ranging from vulnerability assessments and crime surveys to the design of integrated security systems and the protection of critical infrastructure.

Investigations ESG can perform background checks and due diligence in support of critical decision making, as well as provide investigative support to litigation. Given the experience of our staff, no investigative requirement is too complex.

Training and Training Management ESG provides a cadre of former FBI SWAT, Hostage Rescue Team (HRT), and military special operations instructors to assist local, state and federal agencies in their specialized training needs.

Exercises ESG can develop and administer tabletop, command post, and full field exercises that test capability and identify shortfalls in support of an agency's mission. Our exercises comply with guidance in the Homeland Security Exercise and Evaluation Program (HSEEP).

Facility and Personal Security Training Through the use of classroom instruction and practical exercises, ESG can assist our clients in the areas of surveillance detection and terrorist/criminal attack recognition in order to enhance the security of their installations and infrastructure.

Contact Information

Headquarters

1100 Lee Wagener Blvd., Suite 211
Ft. Lauderdale, FL 33315
Phone: 954.359.8897 / Fax: 954.359.8898

Northern Virginia

1320 Central Park Blvd., Suite 266
Fredericksburg, VA 22401
Phone: 540.548.4060 / Fax: 540.301.1396

